In connection with the two days' institute and agricultural convention under the auspices of the Board of Trage, a banquet styled rural-urban was held on Wednesday evening at the Wauregan house as a pleasant social side of the gathering of the agriculturalists. The tables in the big dining room at the hotel were attractive in decorations in pink roses arranged by Reuter and covers were laid for 60, among those attending being several ladies.

ence to the distinguished men who have gone out from Norwich or whose ancestors lived here, and reminding his hearers that the present day Norwich was a leader in the merging of business and agricultural interests which this convention and banquet arranged for by the Board of Trade indicated. There had never been a time, he said, when the business interests recognized the value of its agricul-tural interests as they do today. Untill just now the agriculturalists never got their fair share in Hariford, but in the last legislature they got not only what they asked for but they got more. And this was through the cooperation of the business interests.

Board of Trade President. He introduced President James C. Macpherson of the Norwich Board of Trade, who voiced a sincere welcome to those who were present, and went on to speak of the surprise it gave him to hear that the Norwich Board of ventions of agriculturalists to the city. He mentioned the fact that the farmers of Connecticut produced only 25 per cent. of the food that was con-sumed in the state, which he argued was a good reason for Boards of Trade to wake up and see that our farmers were aided and encouraged to increase and enlarge the productivity of their lands. He thanked the men and wo-men for their attendance at the meet-ings and the banquet and predicted an increasing interest in these agricultural lines in coming years and that this helpful cooperation between city business interests and the agriculturalists would grow to an important Mayor T. C. Murphy. Mayor T. C. To the toast The City of Norwich, His Honor went on to speak of some of the assets of the city, saying that these included a water plant which could be sold at a valuation equal to the entire indebt-denses of the city, an electric light department worth a million dollars, a new reservoir and a park system capable of much development. There is also a beautiful river and a harbor second only to New London's, and allong the river the future may yet see a line of manufactories. see a line of manufactories. Mayor Murphy commended the appropriation New London harbor and said that the vote to curtail that appropriation was a vote to injure the state of Connecticut.

In the banking interests of the city was the Norwich Savings society with the second largest deposits in the state, and not a bank in Norwich had ever gone wrong. The business interests of Norwich are represented by $25,500,000 which pass through them in a year. The day is going by, he believed said the mayor, when banks a year. The day is going by, he be-lieved, said the mayor, when banks refuse to lend the farmer money on mortgage, and he invited the farmers to come to Norwich to do their banking business.

President C. L. Beach Toasimaster Lee spoke briefly in commendation of the change in the attitude of the banks towards the farmer, and then introduced President C. L. Beach of Connecticut State Agricultural college at Storrs.

Connecticut's ability to produce its own foodstuffs made the topic for President Beach's short but interesting response. There has been a cry that the city has robbed the country of its the city has robbed the country of its best young men and women. It is good that the country has been able to furnish these young men and young women to the city. But now there is a revival of agricultural interests and the cry is now "Back to the land!" Two fitting quotations from Budha and Walt Whitman upon the attractiveness of farm life as he continued to speak of the relation between food supply and the high cost of living, race suicide and the increase of population through immigration.

through immigration. Food Supply Question.

It is a question how we are to increase our food supply to take care of our increasing population, while the fertility of the land is on the decrease, if anything. This problem in Connecticut is of importance to every man. We have a population largely engaged in manufacturing. It is a question how long we can keep up present conditions and maintain the present high wage seale. Can Connecticut be made self sustaining if the land new under cyltivation could be developed to its inghest productiveness and that reclaimed to cultivation which has been allowed to go uncultivated? On figures which the speaker used to show that require different times of hoys that require different intentions to increase man will remain where the average man will remain where his financial interests are. If a father could only see the way clear to make the boy a partner in the business and treat him a little better, give him more responsibility and get him interested! Send him to all the farmers' institutes that are within reach and let him ity out some of the things that are being taught us by the experiment station, and in short make him feel that he is an important factor in the firm.

I realize that there are many different times of hoys that require different treatment, but a little diplomacy will generally solve problems of that way clear to make the boy a partner in the business and treat him a little better, give him more time that are within reach and get him interests are. If a father could in the speaker used to every man.

H. O. Daniels of Middletown. H. O. Daniels of Middletown, expert adviser to the farmers of the state, was the succeeding speaker, giving an instance of farm development on a small farm in Wallingford, from which an increase in production from one carload to 75 carloads had been made by right methods of farming. He spoke upon the subject of federal aid for the farmers in the state in con-junction with a fund which the state might establish. Today we are all consumers of food, but only about 30 per cent. are producers. If the work of producing is all put on the shoulders of 30 per cent, of the people they are deserving of some help, and the scientific, accurate knowledge which the state agricultural colleges are try-ing to supply. Do you not think this has something Do you not think this has something to do with the price of food?

Reduce Production Cost.

The cost of fiving has greatly in creased to a point where the man earning $12 a week and less can hardly support his family. The labor agi-tators have been organizing these peo-ple and telling them to strike for their rights. Conditions will not allow the nanufacturer to increase wages to any great extent, and something has got to be done to relieve the situation. I can see but one way out, and that is we must reduce the cost of production on farm products.

Our friends at the experiment station in New Haven and at the college at Storrs have been gathering information and telling us about it for years: that is, those who will go and listen to their lectures, and those who cannot go can get their bulletins for cannot go can get their bulletins for the price of a postal card, and I am tood that comparatively few farmers will take the trouble to send the postal. Farming is a manufacturing proposition. All manufacturers seek and adopt the methods that will reduce the cost of his goods.

Farmers Slow About Changing.

It is an unfortunate condition, but nevertheless true, that the average farmer does not like to change his methods. He says what was good Final Sattlements Banch Trade was a pioncer in inviting con- him, as far as the methods of farming are concerned. If manufacturers wer to conduct their business along the same lines that a great percentage of farmers are doing, they would be out of business as soon as they had used up their available capital. I firmly believe that good farming will do more to solve the problem of the high cost of living than any other one thing. thing.

W. Collingwood, editor of the Rural New Yorker, states that within 40 years from now the best paying farms in the United States are going to be in a strip not over 100 miles wide along the Atlantic coast. When the New England farms have been brought to a high state of fertility by proper management they will be the best paying farms in the country. The producing the best crops Treat the Boys Right.

I am going to refer to a phase of farming that can be improved by a little diplomacy. That is the fact that so many boys are leaving the farms. It is necessary that some of the farm boys come to the cities, or the cities would very soon be in despair. It is surprising how many of the real big men in the cities made their start on a farm. One of the main reasons that the boy leaves the farm is because of the manner in which he is used by his father. They want the boy to stay bome, but insist that he do just the same as his father has always done. Really, the boy is little better than the hired man. Very few parents will willingly acknowledge this state of affairs, but from my observations it is true.

The average man will remain where

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baidness and falling hair, who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baidness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baidness, and is also unequalized for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Hum, 6 ounces; Lavona of Composes, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-haif drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisconus wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. ment. President F E. Duffy of Meriden, of the Connecticut Dairymen's association, followed Mr. Thompson. The dairymen of the state, President Duffy said, were producing now fully, 50 per cent, in value of the agricultural products of the state and were surely deserving of consideration. He mentioned some of the things that the dairymen's associations of the country had done. They had secured an effective oleomargarine law. They were standing back of the state agricultural college, for they were fully alive to the value of the college. President Duffy said he believed the college should have a larger appropriation for the shorter course there should be continued. It had been discontinued because of lack of funds.

The speaker referred to a threat that the dairymen were to be up against free trade on dairy products, and he wanted it understood that the dairy farmers would never stand for any thing but fair treatment from any po-President F E. Duffy of Meriden, of President Duffy spoke of the valuable extension work for farmers which Mr. Daniels was doing, which is intensely practical.

Two Brief Responses

W. O. Rogers, past president of the Connectocut Poultrymen's association, made a pleasant but brief response when called upon, and Frof. C. D. Jarvis of the Agricultural college also responded briefly, speaking of an orchard demonstration in New Milford, where the farmers in three years had been converted from a hostile attitude to-wards extension work into enthusiastic approval of it now. It was a practical work which showed big results and in which good progress was made, although meager funds were available. The banquet, which was in charge of the entertainment committee of the Board of Trade, A. S. Spalding chair-man, was adjourned at 11.39 o'clock, Programme Today. The programme for today at the town hall is as follows:

Watch the kidney secretions. See that they have the amber hue The discharge not excessive or in-requent; Contain no "brick-dust like" sadiment. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for weak kidneys.

Let a Norwich citizen tell you how they work. Michael Cox. 44 Summit Street, Norwich, Conn., says: "I was in pretty bad shape as the result of kidney and bladder trouble about a month ago. The kidney secretions were painful in passage, causing me much misery and could hardly get around, owing to pains in my back. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills I obtained a box at N. D. Sevin & Son's Drug Store, and in three days after I began using them I noticed improvement. The kidney secretions became natural and I was soon rid of every symptom of kidney completel
